Every week starts with Money Quest

One linked idea

The weeks follow the website: forms of money, payments, earning, needs and budgets, saving, currencies, giving, future money, safety, business, AI checks and teamwork.

Three flexible pages

Discover the money idea. Try a related money task. Show a learning response, a money decision or the support you want. No page is a test of handwriting, speech or willingness to sit still.

Use your response

Point, look, arrange large cards, draw, use AAC, type or direct an adult. Offer no, help and pause. SEND supports can be useful at any age; choose complexity separately from communication support.

Print and bind

A4, single-sided, 100% actual size. A 25 mm left area and optional hole guides support home binding. Print the separate calibration sheet first. All examples use pretend details.

Which edition?

Preschool introduces foundations with a grown-up. Supported/SEND uses a model, one action and optional next steps. Older offers explanation, calculation and evaluation. See the separate lesson-and-skill map for exact source references.

Meet money in all its everyday forms

Emma compares cash with money shown in a pretend account. Coins and banknotes are cash. The account balance records money held electronically. None of these examples creates free money.

Which money idea would you check or explain?

Coins are cash

In this pretend shop, the seller accepts pounds. Emma has a £1 coin and a leaf.

Which can she use as money here?

Explorer 6-8: Model the first money idea with pictures: Coins are one form of cash.

Builder 9-11: Which can she use as money here?

Strategist 12-14: Explain the decision, check a claim and describe what could change it.

FOR A GROWN-UP

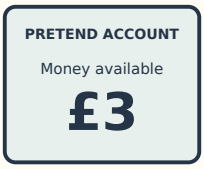

Sort large labelled pictures into coins, banknotes and money recorded in an account.

A money idea I noticed

Explain or show the money idea

A choice to check or change

Grown-up: record what the learner shows, not just whether they completed the page.

No, help, pause or a different response are valid.
